Foreword

The Department of Publicity presents Sportswriters and radio workers this reference brochure of University of Florida football facts for the 1946 season.

Cooperation with members of the Press throughout the State and the Southeastern Conference has always been the keynote of this Department and the members of our staff will endeavor to perpetuate the spirit of cooperation and cordiality that best displays the character and tradition of the University of Florida.

We will be looking forward to meeting you during the coming season.

A Letter From "Bear"

August 21, 1946.

I want to take this opportunity to express for myself and my staff our sincere appreciation for the wonderful reception and press notices given us on our arrival in Florida.

The splendid cooperation on the part of Sports Editors throughout the State has made our job here in the first few months much easier, and has given us added confidence in the task of rebuilding Florida's Fighting Gators.

We look forward to the opportunity of meeting with you during the coming season. We have a "fair" team in prospect for the 1946 season, however we are rebuilding and naturally that takes time. So with your continued cooperation and patience we do know now that football at Florida is on the way back—perhaps not this year, but soon.

Sincerely yours,

R. B. WOLF,

RBW:mb

Head Department of Intercollegiate Athletics.

The Southeastern Conference . . .

Long interested in Athletics at the University of Florida is President John J. Tigert, now serving his second term as president of the Southeastern Conference. A former all-southern back at Vanderbilt in 1903, President Tigert served his first term as SEC president in 1935. Last March he was selected to head the conference again for 1946.

One of the leading intercollegiate conferences in the nation, the SEC boasts a roster of the twelve following schools:

Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, La.
Tulane University, New Orleans.
Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, Ala.
University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, Ala.
University of Mississippi, Oxford, Miss.
Mississippi State, State College, Miss.
University of Tennessee, Knoxville, Tenn.
Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn.
University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky.
Georgia Institute of Technology, Atlanta, Ga.
University of Georgia, Athens, Ga.
University of Florida, Gainesville, Fla.

Fighting Gator Band . . .

The University of Florida Fighting Gator Band has always provided a between half highlight for all Florida football fans, but for 1946 an even better band than in past years will take the field to boost fans and team alike.

Abandoning the old military style uniform with its braided coat and pom-pom hat, the band this year has gone "modern" with a snappy sub-tropic uniform that will feature caps, short coats with inverted lapels in white, white belt, blue trousers with an orange stripe, and white trousers with an orange stripe.

The new uniform designed especially for Florida departs entirely from the more formal military type uniform which will be retained only for military occasions, providing a modern touch for a growing football team. The band will be eighty pieces strong.

Football Outlook . . .

The University of Florida's 1946 grid eleven remains the number one question mark in the minds of Head Coach Raymond (Bear) Wolf and his staff, even as final preparations are in progress for one of the toughest schedules in the history of the school.

With a power packed Southeastern Conference schedule on tap, and with a team faced with the prospect of running from a new single and double wing formation, Wolf's "Fighting Gators" are not going to have an easy time of it. On successive weekends they face the University of Mississippi, Tulane, Vanderbilt, University of Miami (last season's Orange Bowl champs) and North Carolina.

Then with a week's rest they engage Georgia, Villanova, North Carolina State and Auburn on successive weekends. There isn't a "breather" in the lot, all have improved squads, all are good contenders.

Florida has fair prospects in approximately 22 former players of previous years who have returned from service in World War II. There are 38 veterans on the squad currently working out. Wolf also has some strong prospects from last year's high school teams, but has a difficult task confronting him in getting both these players and his service returnees in shape for the rough competition ahead of him.

Spring practice saw a group of scrappy hopefuls who went through the daily routine of learning the Wolf technique, and the current practice sessions of prospective squad members who were not here in the Spring, reveals much the same—all of which adds up to the fact that Wolf is instilling in them an enthusiastic spirit and an aggressiveness that will make them sharp competitors for all foes. But, lack of experience, Wolf believes, will handicap them for a berth among the S.E.C.'s top contenders.

Wolf's smooth, tricky double and single wing style is not new in Southern circles, for many S.E.C. teams became acquainted with the Wolf game while he was coaching North Carolina to a top position in the Southern Conference. Later as head mentor for the Georgia Pre-Flight team in 1942, southern teams again saw the power he can put in his eleven.

Both Spring and Summer practice sessions saw Wolf and his staff concentrating on the offensive play of his single and double wing. Little emphasis has been placed on the defensive play, Wolf deciding to leave that until the final stretch session began September 2 when he called his entire squad together. In all sessions Wolf has emphasized offensive play, showing a smooth tricky offense that won him fame both at North Carolina and Georgia Pre-Flight.

Highlights of the two sessions have been the continued spirit and aggressiveness shown by each member of the squad. Wolf's quiet but firm approach to football instruction has instilled a confidence in the team that will inevitably earn them the title of "Fighting Gators".

Wolf insists it is still too early to point to any single player or players as outstanding or good, but maintains "they have all improved and will earn individual recognition under fire".

He says he will know what the prospects of the team are when he sees them "under fire" against Ole Miss at the opening game. Until then, he says he is reserving his opinion, for they can "all look good in practice". He's not using the crying towel, but in his own words, "wants to wait and see". He's rebuilding and that, he says, will take time.

Starting out at Florida this year, Wolf faces the task of putting the Gators on the road to higher recognition in the conference—that he will do it, there is little doubt—but that it will take time is a certainty—time to build Florida strength and material equal to the strength and power of S.E.C.'s top contenders.

Homecoming . . .

Homecoming this year has been planned as a gala occasion for University of Florida Alumni who have been deprived of a football game and a big week-end at their Alma Mater for the past four war years.

Florida Chapter of Blue Key, outstanding leadership fraternity on the campus, is sponsoring the two days affair and has planned a long program of entertainment for grads, dads and visitors.

Highlight of the week-end, of course, will be the Saturday afternoon football contest between the University of Miami Hurricanes and Florida's Fighting Gators on Florida Field. Game time has been set at 2:30.

Other features will be the pre-Friday night Gator Growl, featuring skits, boxing, music, fireworks and the traditional bonfire. Pre-Homecoming events will be a University Lyceum Council feature presenting the United States Navy Band, Thursday, Oct. 17.

Fraternities will return to their pre-war custom of decorating for the week-end, the Legislative barbecue will be a Saturday noon highlight and the annual Alumni Association meeting and banquet is also on the roster.

This year the Florida State Sportswriters Association will hold their fall meeting on the campus as guests of the University Athletic Association. No elaborate arrangements are being made for their entertainment, but rather they will be urged to join in with the regular festivities. Arrangements for the meeting are in charge of Ash Wing, president, and now with the WNU.

Hotel accommodations for the Homecoming week-end will be scarce as an estimated twenty-five thousand will be in town for the week-end. Sportswriters planning to work the game and who plan to stay overnight should make reservations immediately.

A New College . . .

THE COLLEGE OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION, HEALTH AND ATHLETICS

The University of Florida's College of Physical Education, Health and Athletics under Dean Dennis K. (Dutch) Stanley, veteran coach and athletic director, is one of the first colleges of its kind to be set up in any University in the United States.

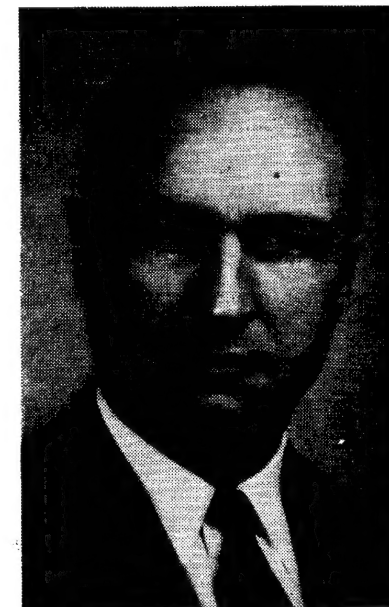

Established as a division of the University last January and elevated to the rank of a College in April, the College of Physical Education, Health and Athletics incorporates five departments—Student Health, Intercollegiate Athletics, Intramural Athletics and Recreation, Required Physical Education and the Professional Curriculum.

In the professional division of the college courses leading to a BA degree in physical education, health and athletics are offered in a curriculum planned to fit takers for jobs in industry as well as in school athletic and recreation work.

The College has taken over control and direction of the student health program, which includes operation of the infirmary, Head Football Coach Raymond (Bear) Wolf has been placed in charge of the intercollegiate athletic program and Spurgeon Cherry named director of intramural athletics.

An important unit of the College of Physical Education, Health and Athletics is the required physical education program which gets under way in September.

All incoming non-veteran freshmen will be required to enroll in the college this fall and after passing physical examinations to establish their efficiency will be given the basic course consisting of track and field, tumbling, boxing, swimming and team games.

Those not physically normal will be given corrective work under trained personnel.

Second semester will see the freshmen who have passed another physical exam advanced to instruction in golf, swimming, tennis and handball. When he becomes proficient in three of the four he advances into the elective sports program, where he will be required to learn two more sports, although he will not be held to any formal classroom schedule.

One of the major physical attractions of the College of Physical Education, Health and Athletics will be a $1,200,000 gymnasium which is now in the blueprint stage. Plans for the gymnasium show that it will seat 8,000, will have 8 classrooms, a motion picture theater, complete dressing room facilities, a speakers' gallery, four indoor basketball courts and complete facilities for the College and the University as a whole.

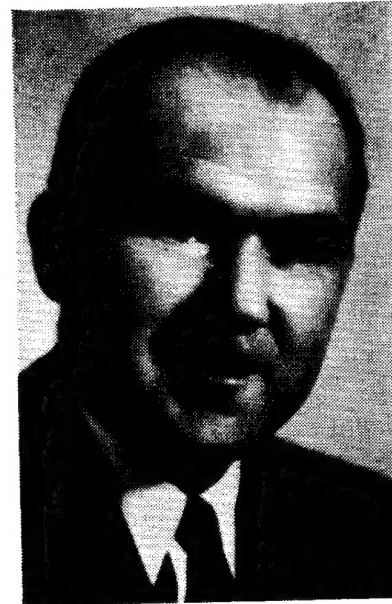

Athletic Expansion . . .

Construction is under way at the University of Florida on a $105,875 project in the College of Physical Education Health and Athletics on new athletic fields and improvements to the infirmary and swimming pool.

Ground is being prepared in an area west of the ROTC parade grounds for the removal of the baseball diamond from Fleming Field; construction is underway on 16 concrete handball courts; six concrete combined tennis, basketball, and volley ball courts; and three new playing fields for football and softball in the intramural athletic and required physical education programs.

A third floor ward is being added to the infirmary to increase capacity; and work on the swimming pool includes installation of recirculation and filtration and chlorination equipment in the swimming pool.

A Note From the Publicity Office

OUR pre-season football coverage of daily stories and features will begin around September 5. Spot news and files on daily practice sessions will be released as they break, while time copy, including features, and special localization stories will be dated for release with an attempt to divide the file evenly between morning and afternoon papers. Pictures of squad members will be available about September 15.

A feature for the weekly papers will be serviced with release dates coinciding with publication dates.

Mail schedules in and out of Gainesville are handicapped somewhat by the fact that there are only four trains daily, with mails closed early in the morning and afternoon. These four trains travel points only from Jacksonville to St. Petersburg, therefore in many instances our releases are held up to some extent by transfers at these points.

Despite these handicaps, however, we will continue to serve you to the best of our ability. We invite your criticism at all times for more efficient service, and urge your requests for stories any time.

Thumbnail sketches of all players will be serviced at an early date.

Press Box Information

The Press Box for all State games on the 1946 University of Florida Football schedule will be operated by the Publicity Department. As has been the custom for the past several years only members of the press actually working the games will be admitted to the press box.

In keeping with a general policy no complimentary tickets are issued the press for seats in the stands, therefore a member of the press not working the game must pay the price of admission. The University realizes this policy may be stern and narrow in its application, but at the same time proposes that it is a fair and just policy inasmuch as there is no discrimination. Everyone pays for admission, the coaching staff (for their families), faculty, administrative heads, and contributors to the Athletic Association.

Members of the Press who will be working the games must write for their tickets for any one game, if possible, a week in advance of the game. The press tickets will then be forwarded. If it is impossible to know whether or not a member of the press will cover the game that far in advance, then a wire the day before the game will reserve a seat in the Press Box. The ticket then can be picked up at the General Information Booth at the Stadium.

Because of the crowded conditions in some of the Press Boxes for state games, particularly at Jacksonville and Tampa, Editors are asked to hold their staff working the game to a minimum in fairness to all papers, and in order to assure efficient service.

Spotting sheets and spotters are furnished at all games as well as complete statistical summaries of the game. Papers desiring direct wire coverage for games can reserve wires with WESTERN UNION. The Gainesville Press Box has outlets for five or more direct wires.

All inquiries for Press Box tickets can be directed to the Department of Publicity, University of Florida, Gainesville.
